General Instructions for the CD

- Stand or sit confidently and speak clearly.
- Maintain a neutral attitude towards every country; never support one country's argument over another.
- Keep track of the schedule and give delegates equal opportunities to participate.
- Do not argue with delegates or allow disrespectful language and personal attacks.
- Follow your conference's Rules of Procedure (RoP). Never invent voting rules, motion procedures, or speaking rights.
- Coordinate continuously with your ACD.

ACD responsibilities

- Maintain attendance records; record speakers and their countries; maintain the speaking list.

- Operate the timer and monitor remaining session time; tell the CD when a session is about to end.
- Record important arguments, proposals, motions, and points.
- Maintain unmoderated-caucus negotiation records; track working papers and draft resolutions.

> Roles: The CD controls the proceedings. The ACD assists with records, timing, and administration.

01 · Moderated Caucus 1 10:10 AM–10:30 AM · 20 minutes

Topic: Climate Change and Its Impact on Developing and Vulnerable Countries

A. How to start

> CD · ENSURE THE GSL HAS CONCLUDED AND DELEGATES ARE READY
>
> "Honourable delegates,
>
> We will now move towards our first moderated caucus.
>
> The topic for this moderated caucus is:
>
> 'Climate Change and Its Impact on Developing and Vulnerable Countries.'
>
> Climate change is a global challenge, but its consequences are not equally distributed. Developing and vulnerable countries often face serious difficulties due to floods, droughts, rising temperatures, food insecurity, and limited resources.
>
> Through this discussion, we aim to understand the challenges faced by these nations and identify the areas where international cooperation is required.
>
> The floor is now open for delegates wishing to speak."

B. Invite delegates

> CD · INVITE AND RECOGNISE SPEAKERS
>
> "Delegates wishing to speak may raise their placards."
>
> [Pause and observe.]
>
> "Thank you. The Chair recognizes the delegate of [COUNTRY]."
>
> "Delegate, you have 45 seconds. The floor is yours."
>
> [ACD starts the timer.]
>
> After the delegate finishes: "Thank you, delegate of [COUNTRY], for your contribution." Then recognize the next delegate. Repeat until the allotted time expires.

C. What to take care of

- Keep discussion focused on developing countries; give different countries an opportunity to speak.
- Ensure delegates do not exceed their speaking time; prevent personal attacks.
- Listen for important arguments and proposals; allow different national perspectives.

D. If discussion becomes slow

> GUIDING QUESTION

"How can developing countries respond to climate-related disasters when they have limited financial and technological resources?"

Other prompts: What challenges do vulnerable countries face? How do floods and droughts affect developing economies? What role should international organizations play? How can countries improve disaster preparedness?

E. How to end

CD

"Honourable delegates,

The Chair appreciates the participation of all delegates.

The discussion has highlighted the challenges faced by developing and vulnerable countries, including economic limitations, climate-related disasters, and the need for international support.

This concludes our first moderated caucus.

We will now move towards our second moderated caucus."

02 · Moderated Caucus 2 10:30 AM–10:50 AM · 20 minutes

Topic: Climate Finance, Technology Transfer, and the Responsibility of Developed Nations

A. How to start

CD

"Honourable delegates,

We will now begin our second moderated caucus.

The topic for this discussion is:

'Climate Finance, Technology Transfer, and the Responsibility of Developed Nations.'

Addressing climate change requires financial resources, modern technology, and international cooperation.

Developing countries often require financial assistance and access to sustainable technologies to implement effective climate policies.

Delegates are encouraged to discuss climate financing, technology transfer, international responsibilities, and possible mechanisms for supporting vulnerable nations.

The floor is now open."

B. Invite delegates

CD · SPEAKER SEQUENCE

"Delegates wishing to speak may raise their placards." [Pause.]

"The Chair recognizes the delegate of [COUNTRY]. Delegate, you have 45 seconds. The floor is yours."

[ACD starts timer.] After each speech: "Thank you, delegate." Continue with the next speaker.

C. What to take care of

- Keep discussion focused on climate finance; listen to proposals regarding financial assistance.
- Allow developed and developing countries to express their positions.
- Note technology-transfer proposals; record countries supporting similar ideas.
- Identify disagreements about financial responsibilities.

D. Questions to guide discussion

1. Should developed nations provide additional climate financing?
2. How can developing countries access modern green technology?
3. How should international climate funds be distributed?
4. What responsibilities should wealthier nations accept?
5. How can financial assistance be monitored transparently?

E. How to end

> CD
>
> “Honourable delegates,
>
> The Chair thanks all participating delegates.
>
> Today’s discussion has highlighted the importance of climate financing, technological cooperation, and shared international responsibility.
>
> The proposals presented will be useful during our upcoming negotiations.
>
> This concludes our second moderated caucus.
>
> We will now proceed to an unmoderated caucus.”

03 · Unmoderated Caucus 1 10:50 AM–11:10 AM · 20 minutes

Topic: Formation of Regional and International Alliances for Climate Action

A. Understand your role

Unlike a moderated caucus, delegates are allowed to move around, communicate directly, negotiate, and form groups according to the Rules of Procedure. You do not need to recognize individual speakers. Your role is to supervise the committee and ensure productive negotiations.

B. How to start

> CD
>
> "Honourable delegates,
>
> We will now move into our first unmoderated caucus.
>
> The purpose of this caucus is to allow delegates to communicate directly, exchange ideas, form alliances, and negotiate possible solutions to the challenges discussed in our previous sessions.
>
> Delegates are encouraged to identify countries with similar interests and work together towards common climate-action proposals.
>
> You may now begin your negotiations.
>
> The unmoderated caucus will last for 20 minutes."
>
> [Start the timer.]

C. What to take care of

- Observe delegate participation; ensure discussions remain diplomatic.
- Observe countries forming groups; identify emerging alliances or blocs and important proposals.
- Notice disagreements and monitor progress on working papers.
- Ensure delegates remain within the committee room unless permitted otherwise.

D. What your ACD should record

1. Countries forming groups and each group's main interests.
2. Important proposals and countries supporting particular proposals.
3. Major disagreements, working papers being prepared, and progress made by each group.

E. If delegates are not participating

> CD
> "Honourable delegates, the Chair encourages active participation. Please use this opportunity to communicate with other nations, exchange proposals, and work towards possible solutions."

F. How to end

> CD · AS TIME NEARS COMPLETION
>
> "Honourable delegates,
>
> The allotted time for the first unmoderated caucus has concluded.

I request all delegates to return to their seats and conclude their ongoing discussions.

The Chair appreciates your participation.

We will now proceed according to the conference schedule."

04 · Tea Break 11:10 AM–11:30 AM · 20 minutes

A. How to announce the break

CD

"Honourable delegates,

We have now reached our scheduled tea break.

The committee will temporarily suspend its proceedings for 20 minutes.

Delegates are requested to return to the committee room on time.

The committee will resume at 11:30 AM.

Thank you, delegates. Enjoy your break."

B. Before leaving

- Ensure the ACD has saved all committee records.
- Keep attendance and speaker sheets safe; secure working papers already submitted.
- Check the remaining committee schedule and confirm the resumption time with the ACD.

C. When the break ends · 11:30 AM

CD

"Honourable delegates, please take your seats.

We will now resume the proceedings of the United Nations General Assembly."

If required by conference procedure, conduct a roll call or attendance confirmation.

05 · Moderated Caucus 3 12:05 PM–12:25 PM · 20 minutes

Topic: Strengthening International Cooperation for Climate Adaptation, Mitigation, and Disaster Preparedness

A. How to start

> CD
>
> “Honourable delegates,
>
> We will now begin our third moderated caucus.
>
> The topic for this discussion is:
>
> ‘Strengthening International Cooperation for Climate Adaptation, Mitigation, and Disaster Preparedness.’
>
> In our previous discussions, we examined the impact of climate change and the importance of financial and technological support.
>
> We will now shift our attention towards practical solutions.
>
> Delegates are encouraged to discuss how nations can cooperate to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, strengthen climate adaptation, improve disaster preparedness, and promote sustainable development.
>
> The floor is now open.”

B. Invite delegates

> CD · SPEAKER SEQUENCE
>
> “Delegates wishing to speak may raise their placards.” [Pause.]
>
> “The Chair recognizes the delegate of [COUNTRY]. Delegate, you have 45 seconds. The floor is yours.”
>
> [ACD starts timer.] After each speech: “Thank you, delegate.” Continue recognizing speakers.

C. What to take care of

- Keep discussion focused on practical solutions; listen for realistic international proposals.
- Encourage discussion of renewable energy; note disaster-management proposals and emission-reduction ideas.
- Identify proposals that could become resolution clauses and ensure equal participation.

D. Questions to guide discussion

1. How can countries cooperate to reduce greenhouse gas emissions?
2. What role can renewable energy play?
3. How can nations improve disaster preparedness?
4. How can the international community support climate adaptation?
5. What international mechanisms can monitor climate commitments?

E. How to end

> CD
>
> “Honourable delegates,

The Chair appreciates the participation and contributions of all delegates.

The discussion has provided several possible approaches to international climate cooperation, including climate adaptation, emission reduction, renewable energy, and disaster preparedness.

Delegates are encouraged to carry these proposals into the upcoming negotiations.

This concludes our third moderated caucus.

We will now move towards our second unmoderated caucus."

06 · Unmoderated Caucus 2 12:25 PM–12:45 PM · 20 minutes

Topic: Negotiation and Preparation of Working Papers and Draft Resolutions

A. How to start

CD

"Honourable delegates,

We will now begin our second unmoderated caucus.

The purpose of this session is to move from discussion towards practical document preparation.

Delegates are encouraged to finalize their proposals, negotiate disagreements, combine similar ideas, and begin preparing working papers and draft resolutions.

Please work with other nations and ensure that your proposed solutions are clear, realistic, and relevant to the agenda.

The unmoderated caucus will last for 20 minutes.

You may now begin."

[Start the timer.]

B. What to take care of

This is an important session because delegates should begin converting their ideas into formal documents.

- Observe group progress and collaboration; identify groups preparing working papers.
- Monitor disagreements between blocs and ensure proposals relate to the agenda.
- Encourage clear, practical proposals and track documents submitted to the Dais.

C. ACD document tracker

Document	Group / Submitter	Status
Working Paper 1
Working Paper 2
Draft Resolution 1
Draft Resolution 2

The ACD should also record sponsors, signatories, contributing countries, main proposed clauses, submission time, and Dais review status.

D. If a group requests help

CD

“The Dais encourages delegates to ensure that their proposals are clearly written, relevant to the agenda, and supported by practical implementation measures.”

If they ask about document formatting, provide the format approved by your conference. Do not write or negotiate a resolution on behalf of a country.

E. How to end

CD

“Honourable delegates,

The allotted time for the second unmoderated caucus has concluded.

I request all delegates to return to their seats.

Groups that have prepared working papers or draft resolutions may proceed with submission according to the committee’s document procedure.

The Chair thanks all delegates for their cooperation.

We will now move towards the working paper and draft resolution session.”
